Foothill Phase II brings five bids

By AL FISCHER

PLEASANTON — Five bids, four under the budgeted amount, were received Wednesday for Phase II construction at Foothill High School.

Low bid was that of Armand Construction Co. of San Jose, $2,006,766. Other bids entered were those of Dickman Construction of Mountain View, contractors on the first phase, $1,951,000; Barnhart Construction of San Leandro, $2,014,700; Branagh, Inc., of Oakland, $2,082,800, and Martinelli Construction of San Francisco, $2,305,000.

Bids will now be reviewed by county counsel. Next step, and the most important one, is the bond sale on Jan. 28. The bonds were approved to be put up for sale at a maximum seven per cent last November by voters in the Amador district.

Following county counsel review and the bond sale, an award of low bid would follow at the February meeting of the Amador school board.

Assistant Superintendent for Business Services Doug Rose said that if all goes well, construction on Phase II at Foothill High School could start by March 1.

The second phase is absolutely critical as Foothill will add a third class in September, increasing the enrollment from approximately 650 at present to 1,000. The school, when all four years are represented, is earmarked for a capacity of 1,500.

Phase II would provide more classroom space, plus additional facilities for sciences.

At their regular monthly meeting Tuesday, Amador district trustees received a financial status report on the 1974-75 budget, plus reports on the state testing program, graduation task force and vocational education review.

Gloria Jones, Coordinator of Pupil Personnel Services, told trustees that the average percentile scores for last year's 12th graders (in reading, language, spelling and mathematics) all fell within the predicted scoring range. The scores represent the district composite and not any individual students.

The scores ranged from 57 in spelling to 72 for reading, 75 language, and 78 mathematics.

Rose reported that the district food services show a miniscule $26 loss through November. This is not counting the food supplies now in stock that could be sold.

Supt. Bruce Newlin reported that the district is still meeting with Valley Community Services District in hopes of settling problems over the Dublin High Swim Center.

Sandy Sandoval, Vocational Education Director, told trustees that a recent visit by a verification team from the state resulted in a favorable report with several positive recommendations.

New sign, Hart memorial

After seven years, Harvest Park School has a sign! The landscaping and trees which will be planted in the area of the sign will be dedicated as a living memorial to Tom Hart, who was Assistant Superintendent for Educational Services for the Pleasanton and Amador school districts. Mr. Hart passed away on Monday. This living memorial was established at the request of the students from Harvest Park School. Dale Hudson, right, principal of the school and his staff, along with class officers, John Pappas, Erin Sweeney, John Pappas, Dwayne Middleton, and Pete Beaulieu participated in the ceremonies of placing the sign. Assembly finance pact is pondered

At press time Wednesday it was still not known whether the majority of the 15 candidates for the 15th Assembly District race would agree to a voluntary spending ceiling in their campaigns for the Feb. 4 special election.

At a meeting Wednesday morning Republican Guy Puccio of Castro Valley, Democrat George Glavor of Hayward and Mary Warren, Alameda County Democratic Central Committee Chairwoman, who represented 10 other Democratic candidates, met with representatives of the League of Women Voters to discuss the proposed spending limit.

Warren told the others she would have to contact the 10 Democrats she represented before they would sign the agreement. She also said the 10 have vowed that either all of them will sign the pledge or none of them will.

That agreement would permit the candidates to spend the maximum of $15,000 in the special primary election, and would limit individual and group contributions to $500 and $5,000 respectively.

Those who sign the pledge will also agree to abide by the ruling of a five-member bipartisan Local Interim Campaign Practices Commission, which will review campaign statements and literature.

The concept of limiting campaign spending and establishing a local commission to oversee the election was first broached by Puccio but since that first meeting, held last week, the negotiations have been held under the auspices of the League of Women Voters.

Even if the 10 Democrats represented by Warren at Wednesday's meeting agree to sign the pledge, at best, only 12 candidates will be bound by it. Republican George Oakes of Hayward has indicated he will not sign the agreement and it is not known whether Democrat Arnold Thompson, also of Hayward, and American Independent Party candidate Lonnie Moore will agree to the spending limits.

If the Democrats, represented by Warren, do not agree unanimously to sign the pact, the concept will be virtually killed.

Those 10 Democrats are Marc Elliot, Joyce LeClaire and Floyd Mori, all of Pleasanton, Dick Oliver of Union City, and the following Hayward candiates, Leo Howell, Josh Jelincic, Thomas Kendall, Doug Morrisson, Rudy Triviso and Bill Vandenburgh.

School holiday February 12-17

Students and teachers in the Amador and Pleasanton school districts will have a vacation from Wednesday, February 12 through Monday, Feb. 17.

This period covers Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12, and St. Valentine's Day, Feb. 14. Washington's Birthday, Feb. 17, is also included.

First semester ends Thursday, Jan. 23. The following day is a teacher workday, but a holiday for students.

'Need someone to work on problems'

By CLAY KALLAM

"One of our problems around here is that we haven't had anyone work on our problems" says Doug Morrisson, one of the 15 candidates pursuing the Assembly seat vacated by the death of Carlos Bee.

"You're in trouble when you don't talk to your constituents" says the Hayward Democrat, who hopes to outfight 11 other Democratic candidates for a spot on the March 4 ballot. (If one candidate of the 15 involved in the Feb. 4 special election should receive over 50 per cent of the vote, he will automatically be elected. In the event no single candidate gets over 50 per cent, a runoff will be held between the leading votegetters in the Republican, Democratic and American Independent parties.

DOUG MORRISON
Hayward Demo

Morrisson continually emphasizes his willingness to stay in touch with the people of the 15th Assembly District should he be elected. He did admit, however, that "it would be difficult to satisfy people on both sides of the hill".

Given the fact that needs of the Hayward Castro Valley - Union City side of the district are much different than the needs of the Pleasanton - Livermore - Dublin side, Morrisson admits that it is "almost an impossible task" to reconcile those differences but adds that "at least I would be visible and available to talk with people."Schools are one area where the district is divided. In the Hayward area, enrollment is declining in the Valley, just the opposite is true.

However, finances are a problem for both. Morrisson feels that whatever school financing plan is eventually adopted should have provisions so that growing districts get more money while stationary or declining districts would not be penalized by inflation.

As far as the Serrano-Priest decision(which essentially would level out school income throughout the state), Morrisson is wary. "You're taking away local control" he fears and doesn't want to "change traditional local control of schools to the state".

Overall, however, he doesn't want to commit the state or local governments to brand new program right away. "Maybe

Traffic Advisory panel

Main-St. Mary's light posed

PLEASANTON — The Traffic Advisory Committee was asked to consider a regular laundry list of traffic suggestions and complaints at its Wednesday afternoon meeting.

Members of the city council had asked the committee to look into the safety of the crosswalk on Kottinger Drive that connects the two housing complexes for the elderly (Pleasanton Gardens and Kottinger Place) and to prepare a status report on a traffic signal for the intersection of Main Street and St. Marys Street.

Traffic Engineer Ken Lamb told the committee the proposed signal was not among the top 10 priority intersections for signalization. A signal had been proposed for that corner in the fall of 1970 but the idea was discarded at that time because of protests from citizens who believed a traffic signal would not be in keeping with the "Heritage" look of downtown.

Lamb indicated he will prepare a report for the council.

Dick Cole of 333 Mission Dr. brought a number of items before the committee for its consideration. Cole said he believed the city should paint left turn arrows in the left turn lanes at Sunol Boulevard and Mission Drive and at First Street and Vineyard Avenue.

He also suggested stop signs for the intersection of Mission Drive and Sonoma Srive and recommended establishing a installing stop signs on Kottinger Drive at the intersection with Mirador Drive.

Cole also asked the committee to look into the situation created by gravel trucks improperly parking at the Corral Drive-In and recommended a separate left turn movement in the Stanley-Santa Rita signal for cars turning into the Robo Car Wash from Santa Rita.

Lamb told Cole the marking of Sunol Boulevard is still in progress and will be completed as soon as possible.

Pleasanton woman to head COVA

PLEASANTON — Bette Meyer, former administrator of the Historic Preservation Program in Washington State and now a Pleasanton resident, has been appointed executive director of the Congress of Valley Agencies (COVA).

As COVA's first executive director, she will be secretary to the steering committee and the Congress, conduct and present studies directed by COVA, suggest how to implement programs and coordinate the information gathered from COVA member cities and agencies.

Meyer has BA in planning and an MA in American history and geography, both earned at Eastern Washington State College.

She began her new job yesterday and is working out of the Livermore Planning Department. Eventually, she will work out of the planning departments of all COVA member cities. The position is a part-time one for the present.

Meyer has been doing freelance research and writing since her arrival in Pleasanton from Washington. She has had two articles published in Northwest Science and one is about to appear in the Montana Magazine of Western History.

She also has written up some programs for the State of Washington.

City hired 100 youths during 1974

PLEASANTON — During 1974, more than 100 youths were employed by the City of Pleasanton in the Public Works, Engineering, Public Safety and Recreation departments.

Nearly 60 of them worked for the Recreation Department, in the aquatics program, playground program, Teenage Enterprise or serving on the Pleasanton Youth Inc. Youth Board.

The Park Division of the Public Works Department employed 23 teens throughout the summer for park maintenance, four youths worked in the Sewage Treatment Division and four were employed by the Water Division.

The Public Safety Department employed four youths during the past summer in the Bike Patrol program (which will be continued next summer) and hired one teen to take fingerprints on weekends for the Police Department.

A youth was also employed by the Engineering Department to assist with traffic counts and blue printing.

Other activites where youths were hired include sports programs, storytelling, excursions and special events.

In addition, Boy Scouts, church groups and 4-H groups have participated either in the one - day - a - year city government program or in special park clean - up programs.

Morrison—

it's about time we took a long hard look at what's going on in our schools and maybe tighten our belts for a while and see what's going on."

"We're trying to have a utopia in an area where it's impossible to achieve it" says the veteran of 23 years in the Hayward school district.

Morrisson has been on the Hayward Area Recreation and Park Board of Directors since 1962 and also has done work for the elderly.

"I think we have to look at this whole concept of retirement." Morrisson contends that it is unfair to expect a person to suddenly adjust to one quarter of his previous income just because he turns 65.

One idea he favors for taking some of the pressure off senior citizens is a property tax measure now employed in Minnesota. There, the property tax on a person's home is frozen permanently at the level it reached at his retirement. This way, Morrisson believes, some inflationary pressures will be taken from the elderly.

As far as welfare goes, Morrisson is in favor of having recipients who are able work for their aid. However, he doesn't think welfare can be avoided. "I think welfare is inevitable because a certain segment of our population, for whatever reason, doesn't seem to be able to work or care for themselves."

Another economically disadvantaged group Morrisson recognizes is the ranchers and farmers who must pay high taxes for land that can't be developed. "There is an inequity there" he admits but sees the problems in wholesale development.

"I'm excited with the concept of a 'new town' but it would have to consider all the other factors," Morrisson said. He is afraid that Livermore would pay much of the cost for Harlan Geldermann's proposed New Town and can see the problems that would arise.

However, he also feels for the ranchers who have to pay taxes on land they can't develop. Although admitting that he has no specific solution to the problem, the Hayward man says "Somebody has to set a land - use plan. I'm not a no growth advocate but we have to be responsible in what we do."

One possibility for development, Morrisson contends, is in the inner cities. He believes that renovated old houses could serve as an alternative to brand new homes. This, he feels, would spur the building industry as well as reverse the present trend of population to the suburbs.

Naturally, this would take some kind of regional control and Morrisson flatly states that "the only hope for the Bay is some kind of regional government." However, he feels that whatever kind of board or group is set up should be elected by the people so that there is some method of control.

Getting the people involved is vital, he feels, just as he believes the people must be involved in any decisions that an Assemblyman makes.

"I don't think you can do anything as an Assemblyman that affects the people in the district without being involved with the pople" concludes Morrisson.

County school boards meet

The Alameda County School Boards Association will meet tonight at 7, at the Emeryville Holiday Inn, according to President Dorothy Hudgins.

Edmund L. Lewis, assistant executive secretary of the California School Boards Association, within whose framework the ACSBA works, will address the group on proposed changes in secondary education.

Lewis came to the CSBA ten years ago after having taught at elementary, secondary, and community college levels, and having served as administrator in the Stockton Unified School District and superintendent of schools, Yavapai County, Arizona.

Before becoming an educator Lewis was a newspaperman and radio announcer-writer.

President Hudgins, a member of the Board of Trustees of the South County Community College District, will conduct the meeting.

Melodrama site changed

PLEASANTON — The site of Friday's melodrama, a fundraiser for Mardi Gras candidate Tuny Dunkley, has been changed to the Amador Valley High School cafeteria. "No Oprey at The Oprey House," or "Too Good To Be True," will begin at 8 p.m. The production is being put on by the Amador International Thespian Society.

Plan goes to Historical Society

Kottinger Adobe preservation eyed

PLEASANTON — Representatives of the Amador-Livermore Historical Society presented a tentative proposal for preservation of the Kottinger Adobe house to Pleasanton's Director of Housing and Community Development John Bowling at Tuesday night's special "citizens meeting" called in compliance with the 1974 Federal Housing and Community Development Act.

James Trimingham of the Historical Society promised to take the matter to the full meeting of the society, and, if it is approved, submit it as an official application for allocation of the funds.

Pleasanton may be allotted $36,915 in first year funding, and $221,536 for expenditures over the three-year act.

The city must submit its full application for deployment of the monies to Alameda County by Mar. 1. The county must send its package proposal to the federal department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) by April 15.

In addressing the two citizens, six Scouts, seven staff members and two reporters present, Bowling pointed out that the prime thrust of the act is to "conserve the nation's housing stock, principally low and moderate income" dwellings.

The first part of the act addresses the problem of community development, while the second part, Bowling noted, requires the city to present a housing assistance plan which "speaks to the condition of local housing in terms of the 1970 census, the need for community housing, what the city plans to do, and where it plans to do it."

Two more hearings will be held at the next City Council meetings, Jan. 27, and Feb. 10, at which the city staff will present the marriage of citizen's input with eligible, ongoing city projects for council approval.

She remembers Picasso

Art critic, writer and publisher, Mme. Rosamond Bernier will speak on "Picasso" Jan. 21 at the Civic Arts Theatre in Walnut Creek at 10:30 a.m.

In 1947 she first met Picasso through mutual artist friends. During one of her visits with him she requested a view of a certain period of his work, which led to the uncovering of a cache of his paintings of 1954.

Her lecture draws on original material and personal reminiscences, and has been presented at the Metropolitan museum of Art and the National gallery in Washington, D.C.

Tickets are available through the Civic Arts Theatre box office, 1641 Locust St., Walnut Creek, phone 939-0355. Office hours are 12 to 5:30 p.m.

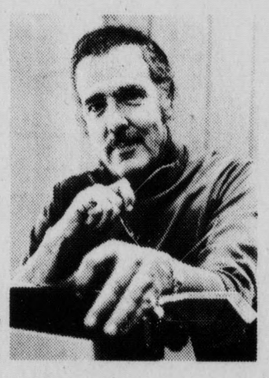
SETTING THE SCENE

Bill Hayden



No matter how I try to get it out of my mind I find there's a haunting quality, above and beyond nostalgia, in a viewing of "That's Entertainment".

MGM's great potpourri of splashy musicals from 1929 to the sixties now playing at the Amador Valley Theatre in Pleasanton, is worth your time and money. Which reminds me, you can see this film for only one dollar a person if you go to the theatre on Saturday or Sunday between 1 and 2 pm. Any reasonable price, however, makes it worthwhile.

Now it all seems a bit hysterical, if not downright funny, when you remember the great splashes musicals made when sound wiped out the silence of the silver screen.

In the first few months after the success of "Jazz Singer" the turmoil in the major studios was nothing short of hectic. There were all sorts of stop gaps to accomodate the product then on the stages as silent pictures tried to conform to the squeaks and squalls the audiences were clamoring to hear.

Most of the immediate solutions seemed to be to tack a 'talkie' ending on whatever was ready for release. It was not at all startling to have long stretches of silent film and then to hear your mute hero and heroine suddenly burst into song or dance for a few minutes and then revert to their former status.

Contrary to what most people imagine, "Jazz Singer" itself was not a talking picture in the true sense of the words. Jolson sang a few of his famous songs and managed a line of dialogue remembered as "You ain't heard nuthin' yet." These early films were advertised as part talking or 100 percent all talking. When the musical fad came into full flower pictures like "Broadway Melody" that were promoted at 100 per cent all talking, 100 per cent all singing, 100 per cent 100 per cent all dancing. The percentages may have been a little exaggerated, but these crude efforts were really blockbusters at the box office. The movie buff of that era could hardly wait for the next one.

Metro Goldwyn Mayer was the 'biggie' in the musical field. Even in the earliest days of sound, they were plush and as elegant as the techniques of the times allowed. Everyone was making 'great' musicals. Warners had their 'Golddigger' series and Paramount came up with the epic "Paramount on Parade" which had every star on the lot doing a musical or dancing bit even if their talents did not justify it.

Universal, the queen of the 'B's and horror films signed Paul Whiteman, then billed as "King of Jazz" to appear in a color film of the same name with John Boles.

Boles had been a big musical star at Warners in the early days of the screen musical. He was our first 'Red Shadow' in "Desert Song" and a romantic character he was. This was before he signed with Universal and went off to the Valley to star as Dr. Frankenstein's friend in the first of that fantastic series of horror films. His co-star at Warners was one Vivienne Segal and his counterpart with a lusty baritone was Alexander Grey. This was a long time before Nelson Eddy came onto the scene, but Jeanette MacDonald was around twittering and trilling in several Paramount musicals with Maurice Chevalier.

Would you latter generations believe Gary Cooper sang? James Stewart did, too, in "Born to Dance" with Eleanor Powell. According to Stewart they even let him do his own vocalizing because it was awfully difficult to ruin a Cole Porter song.

In the early thirties, musicals had fallen by the wayside. People were tired of a format which had boiled down to an elaborate revue style, plotless and disjointed. Then "Forty Second Street" burst on the scene and there was a whole new rash of 'backstage' musicals in which the poor chorus girl was suddenly thrust into the leading role when the big star quit in a huff.

It is really difficult to keep the talent sorted out because all this was happening so swiftly from so many studios. The screen also went high society musical with the arrival of Grace Moore and Lily Pon, Lawrence Tibbett and Jan Kiepura. All this is, however, another story and only one phase of the great years of 100 per cent all singing, 100 per cent all dancing show.

My daughter has described "That's Entertainment" as the only movie that ever 'ran over her.' I think that is a very fitting description. Like meeting a Mack Truck head - on, it's overwhelming. Got to see it. You'll not only like it — you'll love it.

'God Bless Clay'

"God Bless Clay," an art show featuring the work of ceramicist John Mathias, is on exhibit through Jan. 29 at the Chabot College Art Gallery, Hayward.

The exhibit, open to the public at no charge, may be viewed from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday or 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fridays.

Mathias' work has been seen at the Santa Barbara Art Institute, the California State Fair, the Hayward Art Festival, California College of Arts and Crafts, and the University of Arts in Osaka, Japan.

Mathias, currently teaching art in the adult education program at Monclair, also conducts raku seminars and writes poetry. A 1972 graduate of Chabot College, he holds a bachelor's degree in fine arts from California College of Arts and crafts.

Cal State Northridge singers at Hayward

Shaw drama at Berkeley

Michael Leibert directs the wry treatment of the subject of duty, in which a notorious reprobate and the village pastor shine forth against a background of Puritans and redcoats.

The drama will also be staged through Feb. 16, Tuesdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 7 p.m. For ticket information and reservations phone 845-4700.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't pre-read negative aspects into a situation involving a family member. It will work out differently than you expect.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're going to hear someone pass on gossip about a friend. Cut if off at the source before it spreads.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't burden yourself at present with an ally who can't help you attain what you seek. You can do what's needed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's unwise to assume just because something is clear to you that it's equally obvious to a coworker. Review it several times.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be fortunate today in dealings with someone older. This person will be willing to share with you unselfishly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're at your best now in situations calling for teamwork, especially if your partner is one with whom you have past ties.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conditions are still extremely favorable for you careerwise. Pounce upon the smallest opportunity from any source.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're fortunate today through your social contacts, but you'll be less lucky if you take risks with your finances.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Something you're involved in will appear muddled at first. After the fog clears it will come out as planned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll have some doubts about an important decision, but you shouldn't if your answer is based upon your previous experiences.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Center your attention today upon areas materially profitable for you — not on activities that cost money.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Long shots won't pay off now, but situations where you've planned sensibly will. Don't go in over your head.

Some experts are more expert than others. If you don't think so, just look at this hand played by Lou Mathe of Los Angeles in an important team match.

North's double of two spades was one of those popular but rather confusing negative doubles that experts like to use. It asked Mathe to bid a new suit if he could do so.

North's three spades was sheer idiocy. Normally the bid would be a slam try and Mathe's four-heart call was his start to a slam in one of the minor suits. North realized he had gotten himself into trouble and decided to pass while still alive.

West opened with the king and ace of spades and then made the brilliant (?) lead of a low spade. East ruffed with the jack and Mathe simply discarded a diamond.

Since East had started with four hearts there was no way to keep Lou from taking the rest of the tricks and chalking up a thoroughly undeserved game.

Strangely enough, there was no way to beat him once West had cashed two spades, provided Lou figured out where all the cards lay.

A GOOD TRAP shoot was held at the Livermore-Pleasanton Rod and Gun Club Sunday. The high wind and cold provided a little extra competition for the many fine shooters who participated. Following are the top scorers:

Singles — Class AA - Shingo Kariya - 98; Class A - Don Ackerman - 98; Class B - J. Vanier - 96; Class C - Barbara Baker - 97; Class D - Edward Swager - 91.

Doubles — Class A - Don Bonillas - 49; Class B - Francis Carlos - 48; Class C - Ed Sayers - 44.

High Veteran — Al Ginochio Combined Score - 175.

Handicap — Jess Green - 94.

High Overall — Jess Green - Combined Score - 233.

Competition was stiff and the high scores were truly earned!

DON BAUMAN, past president of the local rod and gun club, and at present chairman of the board of directors, entered the trap shoot competition for the first time Sunday! And with a score of 96, he could be a threat to the more experienced entries. Don says it took a lot of concentration on each clay bird; especially when the strong winds caused a good left-handed bird to turn suddenly right; and then a right-handed bird took a downward turn. Don and his wife, Shirley, are both enthusiastic club participants who enjoy hunting, fishing and camping.

DENNY FRISCHKNECT can tell you what it's like to boat a 12-pounder striper on a light rod and reel, using an eight-pound line. Denny says there were a few tense moments when his striper went under the boat. But after a bit of judicious maneuvering, it came aboard. He used grass shrimp as bait and put the boat in the water at the Richmond Launch (public) Ramp. Low tide, too.

PETE RODELLA SAYS he gave up on ducks and pulled out all his decoys, amounting to about 500. That was in the Bacon Island area. Pete reports it takes quite a while to retrieve that many decoys, and "that dog of mine wouldn't retrieve any, so I had to do it all myself!"

DON'T BE DISCOURAGED by Pete's luck — this weekend will be the last chance at getting your ration of those sporty critters called ducks and geese. The season ends Jan. 19. See you down at one of those duck ponds.

CHARLES FARRELL and Leroy Stamer were at the Veal Tract the other day. That is part of the Holland Tract Pheasant Preserve. They report having good pheasant hunting.

DAN JOHNSTON reports good duck hunting at the Grizzly Island Refuge. It isn't far from the valley, although there may be some waiting in line to get in. He says it's a real test to see if the hunter comes out first, or the birds; but he believes the birds have a good ten to one chance.

A "GONG SHOOT" is a new addition which will be included in the local rod and gun club's upcoming competition shoot Jan. 26. This is made of a steel plate 18 inches in diameter, placed at 200 yards. It gives off a loud "boing" when hit, hence the name.

Carl Ehre and gang will be there with his Gallina Metallic Targets. Warren Judd and his helpers will manage the off-hand shoots.

Ken Culp will have his excellent chronograph there. So if you want to know the velocity of your favorite load, see Ken and his chronograph.

ARLISS UNGER, water chairperson of the League of Women Voters of California, will deliver the keynote address at the annual joint meeting of the Cal-Neva Chapter of the American Fisheries Society and the Western Section of the Wildlife Society Jan. 24 in Sacramento.

Mrs. Unger, who lives in Lafayette, will speak on the subject "Habitat in Jeopardy — What Should We Do?"

The joint meeting at the Sacramento Inn, will continue through Jan. 25. Preceding the meeting, on Jan. 23, also at the Sacramento Inn, will be a symposium on trout-nongame fish relationships in streams. This symposium will be sponsored by California Trout, a statewide conservation group, and the fisheries society chapter.

WATERFOWL AND RESIDENT small game hunters are reminded of the ban on the use of shot larger than No. 2 will take effect Monday, Jan. 20 with the close of the general waterfowl seasons.

Cowboys corral MV

By KEVIN JOHNSON

After falling behind 13-0 at the end of three matches, the Livermore Cowboys came back to defeat Monte Vista, 33-23, in an EBAL dual wrestling meet last night in Danville.

The Cowboys reeled off five straight victories in the 120 through 147 pound categories to go ahead, 21-13, and never looked back.

The meet actually hinged on the heavyweight match between Monte Vista's Kurt Kanellis and the Cowboys' Gary Tennyson, as the Mustangs mounted a flurry in the late stages.

Kanellis surged ahead in the first round, 6-5. But Tennyson showed superior strength by disposing of the MV grappler with :50 seconds gone in the second round, to preserve the Livermore victory.

The Cowboys boosted their lead to 27-19, following two consecutive wins by Russ Wilson (167) and Doug Pope (177).

Monte Yista's Casey Merrill left it up to the heavyweights when he demolished Gary Dimon in their 193 pound match, 12-2.

Dublin outpoints Wolves

By STEVE MONA

Dublin High's Bill Newton recorded a crucial second round pin EBAL wrestling victory last night in Dublin.

The team score was tied at 18 entering the 154 pound match, where Voegli, a state meet competitor a year ago, was heavily favored.

Newton wasn't even supposed to be wrestling last night, but got the call when Matt Anderson was hit with the flu.

Voegli dominated the first round, capturing a 5-2 lead, and, appeared to have Newton moving backwards toward the mat. Newton threw his arm around Voegli's neck, however, and stuck the Wolf star to the cushion with 41 seconds gone in the second period.

Voegli violently protested the call, and was slapped with a one point team score deduction.

Dugan's win put Dublin on top, 27-17.

Guy Baiocchi narrowed the gap to 27-20, as he outpointed Wayne Crow, 8-4.

In a hotly contested 191 pound bout, Bob Klein decisioned the Wolves' Will Bawden, 5-2.

Klein clung precariously to a 3-2 lead before taking down the feisty Lobo grappler late in the match to fill out the team victory for Dublin.

Heavyweight Bob Galant put some frosting on the cake when he upended Rich Wright, 8-4, running the final score to 33-20.

San Ramon opened up an 18-0 lead in the first four matches.

Pat Shaner made it two in a row when he slapped Dave Yu's shoulders to the mat with 1:51 elapsed in the second period of the 103 pound bout.

Steve Ramos made it 15-0, as he whitewashed John Davide 3-0.

Dublin 33, San Ramon 20

EBAL soccer crucial today

The EBAL soccer championship should be decided at Dublin High School this afternoon, and just possibly, some soccer history may be written.

Dublin challenges Livermore at 3 p.m., bidding to become just the third team to ever win the EBAL title. Livermore and Amador Valley have won every league crown since the sport's inception here.

The Cowboys and Gaels are tied in the standings with 10 points each, two ahead of third place Granada. Both have three matches left after today. The remaining contests aren't too tough, so today's showdown should force the only break in the first place deadlock.

Livermore defeated Dublin the first time around in league play, 3-1 at home. The Gaels bounced back to trim the Cowboys, 3-0 in the Moreau Soccer Tournament. Livermore hasn't lost a league contest, but has tied two.

Both teams won convincingly in their last game, Livermore thumping Monte Vista, 4-1, Dublin belting Amador, 5-0.

If either side has an edge, you find it.

Livermore has several players experienced in championship play, including forward Dan Payne and halfbacks Wayne Perry and Robin Wilkerson.

Dublin's defense has been nearly impregnable the last few weeks, scoring three straight shutouts. Fullbacks Derek Hoxie, Bob Wagonhoffer John Rodriguez and Steve Duncan have been outstanding.

The goal keepers are both first year players, Pete Howard for the Cowboys, Chris Cantalini for the Gaels.

Sam Hitcher was the scoring leader with 14 points, followed by Carl Shelen with 10. Black added six.

Larry Green had four points for the losers. First Baptist dropped to 0-2 for the year. Straw Hat had to survive the shooting touch of Jack McCormick to earn a 32-26 decision over the Crossing. McCormick hit eight field goals for 16 points, leading all scorers. John Rajala keyed Straw Hat with 10 points and a strong rebounding performance. Teammates Bill Steadman and Chip Christian both scored six points. Lionel Anderson had six for the losers, and also rebounded well. In other action, Harris Realty evened its record at 1-1 with a 37-32 win over Pleasanton Jaycees. Terry O'Flynn hit four of six free throws down the stretch to insure the victory. He finished with 10 points, as did Vince Kouns. But Mike Gibbons led Harris with 11.

Valley bus line to BART is 'most successful'

The bus line serves all three valley communities, linking them with the Bay Area Rapid Transit stations at Bay Fair and Hayward. Service is run five days a week from 5:30 in the morning to 9 at night. While the buses are those of AC Transit, the service is administered by BART.

A spokesman for AC said that, except for patronage being virtually nil on the two holidays (Christmas Day and New Yearsday), ridership had gone over the 3,000 mark (total) in two of the four weeks compiled to date.

Patronage the first week totaled 2,442, the second week it went over the 3,000 mark to 3019, the third week total was 3,271 and the last week in December (including the two holidays) was 2,986.

Only 42 were counted on Christmas Day and 94 on New Years Day.

A BART spokesman said the "U" line, including the U-L to Livermore, U-P to Pleasanton and U-S to San Ramon, was the most successful of all new routes which began service in early December.

Several routes serve communities in central and eastern Contra Costa counties, including Concord, Martinez, Pittsburg, Antioch, Brentwood, El Cerrito and Pinole. Another route, the "D", links Dublin, San Ramon, Danville, Alamo and the Walnut Creek BART station.

Early morning service on the various "U" lines operate express and on a 30-minute headway. From approximately 8:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m., the service is on a 50 to 60-minute headway.

Persons seeking schedule information can call 462-BART.

Discussion on regional library

BERKELEY — An Association of Bay Area Governments committee will consider tonight a proposal to seek funding for examination of regional library system coordination.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be held at the Claremont Hotel.

The organization's executive committee will consider a request to submit the proposal the California State Library system and the state department of Health Education and Welfare.

If granted the study could be funded with some $72,000 under the Library Construction Act for an inventory of the regional libraries.

The study could provide local libraries with information on technical systems available through other library facilities.

The information could be used to avoid duplication of expensive automated library systems.

SR schools set 'Career Planning'

Having trouble finding work?

Perhaps the most "relevant" course of this recessed era will be offered by the Adult Education Department of the San Ramon Valley Unified School District starting this Monday and running for 12 weeks.

"Career Planning," designed for persons reentering the job market, changing vocations, or seeking information about future jobs, will be taught Mondays, from 7 to 10 p.m., in room G-4 of San Ramon High School.

Two preliminary meetings will be followed by nine sessions presented on Channel 6, Mondays, at 8 p.m, with an evaluation session as finale to the study.

Students will be invited to participate in this, the district's first course presented on television.

Participants in the class will explore personal career goals, investigate different careers, and learn the techniques of seeking employment, including resume writing and "The Interview."

Registration and payment of the $4 fee will be at the first class meeting. For further information, call the center at 837-1382.

Mrs. Martha Douglas, class instructor, has a master's degree in mass communication, a teaching credential, and has been a social worker.
